

Treatment for Substance Use Disorder in Richmond

The back side of this card contains just a few of the resources in the Richmond area that will get you connected with treatment for your substance use disorder. Seeking help for your substance use disorder is the first step in recovery.

Learn to recognize the signs of an opioid overdose. They include:

- Blue fingers/lips
- Pale, clammy skin
- Limp body
- Pinpoint pupils
- Unresponsiveness
- Slowed or stopped breathing or heart rate.

If someone you know has these symptoms, administer naloxone (Narcan) if available and call 911 immediately.*

Who can I contact for treatment?

SAMHSA Treatment Line

Call: 1-800-662-4357

This helpline will connect you to free and confidential treatment referral for your substance use disorder. It also provides information about substance use disorders, prevention, and recovery. Available in English and Spanish, 24/7.

Payment: No cost

Virginia Recovery Foundation

Call: 804-381-8537

VRF helps individuals suffering from substance use disorders find placement in a recovery program.

Payment: No cost

Richmond Behavioral Health Authority

Call: 804-819-4100

RBHA's Crisis Intervention provides 24-hour emergency services, information, referral, and triage for outpatient services for the City of Richmond.

Payment: Private insurance, medicaid, sliding scale self-pay

McShin Foundation

Call: 804-249-1845

On a walk-in basis, the McShin Foundation offers intervention services, housing, support and guidance. McShin has connections with outside treatment centers, provides peer-to-peer support services, and has a recovery high school.

Payment: Self-pay

The Healing Place

Call: 804-230-1184

The Healing Place provides residential alcohol and drug addiction treatment services for men with limited resources.

Payment: No cost for Richmond area clients. Fee for those from outside of the area.

Alive RVA

Call: 1-833-4PEERVA (1-833-473-3782)

A peer recovery warmline that provides treatment resources, recovery support, and housing, food, and health resources. 8:00 AM-Midnight, seven days a week.

Payment: No cost